BEHAVIOR

The New Buffalo Township Library encourages people of all ages to visit the library. Those using the library and its resources have the right to expect a safe, comfortable environment that supports appropriate library services. The New Buffalo Township Library seeks to foster a welcoming and orderly environment that is conducive to reading, acquiring information, and study.

Voice levels will vary in certain areas of the Library. Patrons working closely together (example: internet computers, work tables) are expected to respect each other and maintain a quieter voice level. Respect for other patron's privacy while using the Library is also expected.

People entering the library are expected to respect the rights of other patrons to use the library. No person shall harass or annoy others by being noisy or boisterous, by playing audio equipment so that others can hear it, or by behaving in a manner that reasonably can be expected to disturb other persons.

- Disregard of guidelines and procedures contained in this policy

People demonstrating aggressive, abusive behaviors will be asked without warning to leave the library. Local law enforcement may be asked to intervene if needed. These behaviors may be cause for loss of library privileges. These behaviors include:

Children's Safety Policy

We welcome children in the Library and hope that children who use the Library will perceive it as a fun place to be.

Young children (under 8 years old) may never be left unattended on library property.

The New Buffalo Township Library staff members are available to assist children with Library materials or services. The Library is not equipped and it is not the Library's role to provide long or short-term child care.

Our top priority is the provision of a safe environment for all children. However, the responsibility and for the safety and well-being of children is the responsibility of parents or guardians.

This parental responsibility extends to their children's use of Library computers with access to the Internet. Programming offered for children at the library is not intended to take the place of care by a parent or other caregiver. The Library respects the privacy of parents and children who use the library; however, Library staff will take appropriate action if a child visiting a library appears to be "at risk":

- Children eight (8) and under left unattended. "Unattended" means that the parent or caregiver is not in close proximity to the child. The caregiver must be actively supervising the child.
- Children of any age who become disruptive or appear to be frightened when left alone or in the care of other children at a library.
- Children who appear to be subjected to physical or emotional abuse while using library facilities.
- Children who appear to be subjected to uninvited interactions.
- Any child left without transportation at closing.

If one of the above situations occurs, staff shall follow established procedures, which may include an attempt to contact the parent or guardian of an unattended child, or notification of law enforcement, as appropriate.

For the safety and comfort of children, a responsible adult or adult caregiver over the age of twelve should accompany a child while using the Library and assist the child when using library resources. While in the Library, parents

- Parents or legal guardians, whether present in the library or not, are responsible for their children's behavior at all time.
- Parents or legal guardians are responsible for any damages to library property caused, in whole or in part, by their children, regardless of the children's age.
- Children eight years or younger must be accompanied by a parent, a guardian, or a Caregiver*, at all times
- Parents, guardians or Caregivers* are responsible for maintaining control over their child's behavior in the library, at all times
- Parents, guardians or Caregivers accompanying children eight years or younger must stay within a reasonable distance and be actively involved with the child at all times.
